

FOR OTHER TEAM 2 FAMILIES

Follow Along: Expedition Tracker

A free app for following your young person's Vietnam & Cambodia trip day-by-day — a route map, countdown, trek progress, and a private family message board. A link's been shared in the WhatsApp group — here's what to do with it.

■ Takes about 30 seconds. The team departs Friday 17 July, with the pre-departure meeting on Thursday 16 July — worth doing before then so you've got the countdown, flight tracking and full itinerary ready.

What you'll end up with

An app icon on your phone and your family's home screens showing exactly where your young person is each day of the trip, a live countdown to departure and homecoming, the full day-by-day itinerary, key contacts, and a private space to leave messages for them to read when they're back.

Step 1 — Open the link

Tap the link shared in the WhatsApp group. It'll open straight in Safari — no account, download, or sign-up needed.

Step 2 — Personalise it for your young person

Tap the Info tab, then the “Whose trip is this?” card, then “Change name / pronouns”. Enter their name and pronouns and save — the whole app updates itself everywhere: the countdown, the itinerary, the map and the messages board.

Your copy is completely private to your own device — this never affects anyone else's phone, even other families using the exact same link.

Step 3 — Add it to your home screen

In Safari, tap the Share button, scroll down and tap “Add to Home Screen”. Do this on every family member's phone and iPad who wants it — each device shows its own private messages, so everyone gets their own message log to build up while your young person is away.

This must be done in Safari specifically, not Chrome or another browser, for “Add to Home Screen” to work correctly on iPhone/iPad.

A couple of things to know

- The live trek tracker and flight times come from True Adventure's own systems — this app just makes them easier to check at a glance. Always defer to True Adventure or the school for anything that looks different.
- No phone signal is expected during the jungle trek days — the satellite tracker keeps updating even then (just not instantly), and gaps of a few hours after landing or overnight are normal, not a fault.

Want to keep a copy after the trip?

The link above is all you need for the trip itself. If you'd like a permanent copy of the app afterwards — one that's fully yours and safe from any changes made to the original — you can “fork” it to your own free GitHub account in a couple of minutes:

- 1 Sign up free at github.com with any email address
- 2 Go to github.com/duncanrwebb/expedition-tracker and click Fork (top right), then Create fork
- 3 In your new copy, go to Settings → Pages, set Source to Deploy from a branch, Branch to main, folder / (root), then Save
- 4 After a minute, refresh to see your own permanent web address (something like yourname.github.io/expedition-tracker) — personalise and add to your home screen the same way as before

Built from the official George Abbot School Team 2 True Adventure itinerary; always defer to True Adventure or the school for any live changes to plans.